

Happy Halloween

November 2-6, 2009

Dear Parents,

Wow, the students really earned their party today! We had a busy and productive week with tests and quizzes, now I will have a busy weekend of correcting. ☺ Report cards come home on Monday, please know that most children will see lots of / (meeting expectations) and a few - (below expectations) early in Third Grade. My goal is to move them towards more + (exceeding expectations) by the end of third grade. Also quarter 2 has started and a few grades are already entered, you may see a difference in the Quarter 1 grades and year to date grade.

Language Arts	TRADITIONS THEME BEGINS. We will read "The Keeping Quilt" Comprehension skill: Author's viewpoint. Grammar: Common nouns. Word work: Compound words, word families.
Math	Unit 3, Measurement. See family Letter in your child's Friday Folder. Linear measures and perimeter. We are beginning to learn the multiplication and division tables. We will start the 2s on 11/4.
Social Studies	Chapter 2, Communities.
Religion	Chapter 4, emphasis on Pentecost
Please remember:	Conferences coming up. November 5, 9, 12, and 16. 4-8 pm. November 9 th 2:00 Veterans Day Performance for choir members in the church.

We had a full class today, for the first time in weeks! Great to have the whole gang here, if your child was sick, they will most likely need to be excused for some of our in class assignments. Try to keep current on Math and LA, as we will be building on those skills all year.

Have a safe and spooky Halloween! Enjoy these days, they go WAY TO FAST!
